

The Michael Bruno Memorial Award

Open Call

The Michael Bruno Memorial Award is granted annually to three outstanding mid-career Israeli scholars who have demonstrated an exceptional originality of mind, dedication and ground-breaking impact in their research, and who have succeeded in influencing and re-shaping their field of expertise. This award, a personal prize in an amount of 200,000 NIS, is both the highest recognition of past accomplishments and a vote of confidence in the laureates' future achievements and contributions to research and to Israeli academia.

As of 2022, the award alternates each year between STEM scholars and scholars in the Humanities, Social Sciences and Law. The 2023 award will be granted to scholars in the Humanities, Social Sciences and Law.

A list of past recipients of the award can be found HERE.

2023 Bruno Award Open Call for Israeli Scholars in the Humanities, Social Sciences and Law

The Israel Institute for Advanced Studies (IIAS) hereby invites all full professors (current or emeriti) at Israeli research institutions to nominate candidates for the Michael Bruno Memorial Award for mid-career scholars in the Humanities, Social Sciences and Law.

Timeline

February 15, 2023 ► The submission platform will open for nominations (link TBA)

April 30, 2023 ► Deadline for submitting nominations

November 30, 2023 ► Announcement of the 2023 Bruno Award laureates

January 2024 ► Academic Symposium in collaboration with the laureates

Who Can Nominate Bruno Candidates?

The nominator must be a full professor or professor emeritus from any Israeli research institution. Each nominator may nominate only one candidate.

No self-nominations will be accepted. Candidates should not be informed of their nomination.

Candidate Eligibility

Eligible candidates must be faculty members in the Humanities, Social Sciences and Law in Israeli research institutions who are under 50 years of age as of February 15, 2023.

Nomination process

The nomination form and all attached materials must be in English. In the online form, the nominator is asked to enter the following details:

1. The candidate's personal information: full name, date of birth, affiliation.
2. Short description of your reasons for nominating the candidate (maximum 150 words).
3. Description of your relationship to the candidate, including comments pertaining to any potential conflicts of interest.
4. A list of the candidate's three most important publications.
5. The candidate's h-index, if applicable.
6. A list of four international experts in the candidate's field and their contact information.

In addition to the above, the nominator is required to provide the following documents (PDF format):

1. The candidate's professional CV and a full list of publications.
2. A letter written by the nominator recommending the candidate, and detailing the candidate's impact on his/her research field and unique contributions.

3. A letter from an additional faculty member in Israel (need not be a full professor but must be from a different academic institution than the nominator).
4. The candidate's three most important publications (indicated in the online form). If one of the publications is a book, one representative chapter from the book will suffice.

Incomplete applications will not be considered.

The Selection Process

The selection is carried out in two stages. At the first stage, the list of candidates will be narrowed to a shortlist. At the second stage, each candidate on the shortlist will be evaluated with the help of external referees.

The candidates are selected by an external selection committee of renowned scholars (3-5 people) in the relevant fields. The selected laureates and their nominators will be personally informed. A general announcement will be sent to all nominators via email.
